

The 2013 PortExecutive Seminar
(Antwerp, 9-10 September)

PortEconomics proudly announces the third edition of its PortExecutive Seminar, a two-day executive training program exploring challenges faced by port managers and regulators.

Following two successful editions in Greece and France, the 2013 edition heads to Antwerp, home to Europe's second largest seaport, and will take place at the 16th century 'Hof van Lier'.

The PortExecutive provides port and port-related professionals an in-depth analysis of the port competitive environment; port strategy, port governance, private-public partnership and port supply chains. It is brought to you by a unique team of leading academic experts and practitioners; all of them having extensive experience and contributions in the structuring of the port sector in all five continents.

Join a unique series of interactive sessions involving a mixture of decision-makers, the highly experienced PortEconomics team and industry representatives (shipping lines and port authorities), who will update you on developments in the port world and inform your future professional activities.

Registration will commence May 10th - and an early-bird fee will apply for those registering by June 20th.

Save the Date

Read more details @ the section of the PortEconomics devoted to the third edition of our programme:

The 2013 PortExecutive Seminar

www.porteconomics.eu

9-10 SEPTEMBER
ANTWERP
BELGIUM
SAVE THE DATE

The Port Executive Seminar

A two days executive training program by PortEconomics

Overview

The PortExecutive Seminar is a two-day executive training program exploring challenges faced by port managers and regulators. Following two successful editions in Greece and France, the 2013 edition heads to Antwerp, home to Europe's second largest seaport. The seminar provides port and port-related professionals an in-depth analysis of the port competitive environment; port governance, private-public partnership and port supply chains brought to you by leading academic experts and practitioners.

Join a unique series of interactive sessions involving a mixture of decision-makers, the highly experienced PortEconomics team and industry representatives (shipping lines and port authorities), who will update you on developments in the port world and inform your future professional activities.

Who should attend?

Managers and staff of private and public bodies involved in port management, operation, planning and development. Private consultants interested in developing a portfolio of port projects.

Where:

The seminar will be hosted by ITMMA, University of Antwerp in the bustling port city of Antwerp. The venue of PortExecutive Seminar is the 16th century 'Hof van Liere' of the University of Antwerp, Prinsstraat 13, 2000 Antwerp.

Contact for further information:

Aimilia Papachristou, E. a.papachristou@aegean.gr, T: +30 22710 35287 / Fax: +30 22710 35299

Further info: www.porteconomics.eu/portexecutive

Organized by:

Hosted by:

